ABOUT US

“We value our partnership with RedMane. We bring business problems that we cannot solve to the table, and RedMane brings solutions.”

Robbie Endris – Executive Director, State of Louisiana Support Enforcement Services

At RedMane, we are more than the sum of our parts.

Far more.

Who we are and what we do transcends the details of our company structure and the services we provide. It stems from how we handpick our staff—what qualities we look for beyond their development skills, what aspects of their character we value, what people skills they already have or can readily acquire. It embraces not only our technical capabilities but our time-tested approaches to achieving success and complete client satisfaction on every project.

Yes, we are staffed with experts in technology, business analysis, and project management. And yes, we can handle system application projects large and small—from strategic business discovery to design, development, customization, implementation, training, and beyond.

But it's how we work—hand in hand with our clients every step of the way, with the goal of satisfying the entire scope of their needs—that sets us apart and elevates us to the rank of trusted source.

It's the RedMane way.
